Enrile to young solons: Work harder, longer on budget

By Luige A. del Puerto and Michael Lim Ubac

EMBARRASSED at the prospect of yet another reenacted national budget, veteran legislator Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile challenged his much younger colleagues in the House of Representatives to work without let-up to pass the 2005 appropriations bill.

The 80-year-old Enrile challenged the House members to work 16-hour days, which he said he and his colleagues in the Senate would match with 20-hour work days.

"Get down to work. No night clubs, no playing of golf, no sniffing of shabu, no smoking of cigarettes," he said during the launch of the opposition's Rebolusyon Kontra Gutom program in Taytay, Rizal, yesterday.

Senate President Franklin Drilon said on Sunday that because the appropriations bill was being held up in the House, Congress may fail to approve the 2005 budget, which would mean that the government would again be operating on the reenacted 2003 budget.

Enrile said that if the budget was reenacted a second straight year, Congress may as well give up its function of sorting out and approving the budget and leave the job to the executive branch.

"It means that we are no longer following the Constitution, that we are lazy and that the government has no discipline," he said.

Enrile said he could not believe how some legislators could even think of going on vacation at this time.

"I told them to postpone their vacation and solve the problems of the country first. Their seats have not even been warmed yet and they are already on vacation; they have gone roaming to other parts of the world," he said.

Administration Sen. Richard Gordon yesterday assured the public that the Senate was willing to work double time to finish the budget deliberations by the end of the year.

GMA: Local Reds tying up with terrorists

PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo yesterday said the government has found evidence of growing links between foreign terrorists and communist guerillas waging a decades-old Maoist rebellion in the country.

She said she had ordered a review of the government's strategy to address the 35-year-old insurgency, which includes peace talks with the rebels that stalled earlier this year.

"In view of recent developments, I have instructed the national security agencies of the government to come up with a comprehensive reassessment of our strategy vis-a-vis the CPP-NPA and a review of our negotiations with the NDF," referring to the rebels' political wing, the National Democratic Front.

National Security Adviser Hermogenes Ebdane said the recent developments alluded to by the President were the murder of former NPA rebel Arturo Tabara, the consolidation and expansion of the CPP-NPA in the rural areas, and the order of Communist Party of the Philippines founder Jose Maria Sison to conduct operations against the government on a regular basis and increase the collection of progressive taxes.

Defense Secretary Avelino Cruz stressed that the President's order to reassess the peace talks included deciding whether or not the government should continue talks with the CPP-NPA and the NDF, and whether to label the communist rebels a terrorist threat.

Ms Arroyo claimed that intelligence reports showed growing links between the leftist rebels and the international terrorist groups.

Ebdane and Cruz, however, could not cite any specific terrorist groups which had hooked up with local leftist rebels.

Burma PM sacked, arrested for corruption

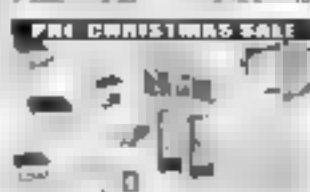

By BBC News
Nay Pyi Taw
Burma's Prime Minister U Aung Mye Thaw has been sacked and arrested on charges of corruption. The 61-year-old leader of the Union Solidarity and Development Party (USDP) was accused of misappropriating state funds. He was replaced by U Htun Mye Kywe, a senior minister in the cabinet. The arrest was part of a wider anti-corruption drive by the military government.

The military government announced the news on Monday. U Aung Mye Thaw was accused of using state funds for personal gain. He was arrested by the military police. The new Prime Minister, U Htun Mye Kywe, is a long-time ally of the military. The move is seen as a consolidation of power by the military.

The arrest of U Aung Mye Thaw is a significant blow to the USDP. It shows that the military government is willing to take action against corruption, even if it involves a member of its own party. The move is also seen as a warning to other officials in the government.

The military government has been accused of human rights abuses and repression. The arrest of U Aung Mye Thaw is part of a wider campaign to root out corruption. The government has also been accused of using force to suppress dissent.

Indonesia's Megawati leaving as she has governed—silently

By BBC News
Jakarta
Indonesia's President Megawati Sukarnoputri is leaving office after a five-year term. She is the first woman to have served as President of the country. Her departure is seen as a transition of power to the next leader.

Megawati's tenure was marked by a focus on economic development and social reform. She is leaving office with a high approval rating. Her departure is seen as a positive sign for the future of Indonesia.

Megawati's legacy is one of a strong and capable leader. She has been praised for her commitment to the people of Indonesia. Her departure is seen as a loss to the country, but also as an opportunity for new leadership.

The transition of power is a key moment in the history of Indonesia. It marks the end of Megawati's presidency and the beginning of a new chapter. The country is looking forward to the future with optimism.

Noose tightens on Garcia trapped by questions

MANILA, Nov. 10 (AP) — President Joseph E. Estrada's administration is facing a series of questions that could lead to his impeachment, a move that would force him to step down from office.

The questions center on the alleged involvement of Estrada's son, Joseph Jr., in a controversial land deal involving a former presidential palace guard.

The deal, which was worth $10 million, was allegedly made without proper approval from the relevant government agencies.

Estrada's administration has denied any involvement in the deal, but the questions have become a major political issue.

The opposition has called for a full investigation into the deal, and the public has expressed growing concern about the integrity of the administration.

The questions have also led to a loss of confidence in Estrada's leadership, and the administration is now under intense pressure to provide answers.

But it's not just the money that's at stake. "We're going to be looking for a way to make sure that we're not just looking at the bottom line, but we're looking at the top line," says a source familiar with the situation. "We're looking at the long-term value of the company, not just the short-term value."

It is important to understand that, according to the law, a person who is not a citizen of the United States cannot be a member of the House of Representatives. The House of Representatives is the lower house of the United States Congress, and its members are elected by the people of each state. The House of Representatives is the only branch of the federal government that is directly elected by the people. Working on the right side of the road is not a pleasant experience, but it is a necessary one. The road is the lifeblood of the economy, and it is the responsibility of the transportation industry to keep it in good shape. This is a job that requires a lot of hard work and dedication, but it is also a job that is essential to the well-being of the nation.

Abstract: A review of the literature on the effects of the environment on human health. Some of the most important work in the field of child development is being done in the United States, but it is often overlooked. This is the case with the work of the late Dr. Robert R. Scheraga, who died on June 1, 1991, at the age of 68. Dr. Scheraga was a pioneer in the study of the development of the human brain, and his work has had a profound impact on the field.
